U.S. National Arabian & Half-Arabian Championship Horse Show Makes It's Return to Tulsa

(1-October-14 – AURORA, CO) – Returning to Tulsa, Okla., the U.S. National Arabian and Half-Arabian Championship Horse Show is bringing the best Arabian horses in the industry right to Tulsa's doorstep. This prestigious event will offer Arabian, Half-Arabian and Anglo-Arabian horses and both their amateur and professional exhibitors the opportunity to compete in a variety of classes and divisions.

The show is held from Friday, October 17 through Saturday, October 25 at Expo Square. As the Arabian Horse Association's (AHA) most prestigious North American championship in the Arabian show horse industry, this flagship event brings more than 1,700 horses and 1,800 exhibitors to the city of Tulsa. With most exhibitors lodging, eating and refueling within the Tulsa metro, the show's economic impact for the city comes close to $40 million.

Exhibitors and horses participating in the show must have qualified at a local and regional level in order to compete. They each have earned their way to U.S. Nationals, competing for the honor of being crowned U.S. National Champion.

Class sessions will begin each day at 8 AM, 1 PM and 7 PM respectively. The array of classes, include Halter, Native Costume, Western, Hunter, English and Saddleseat Pleasure, Driving, Reining, Working Cow, Trail and more! World class shopping, elaborate barn decorations and a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to meet some Arabian horses up close and personally, awaits those who attend.

The event is FREE and open to the public. More information about the horse show and related events can be found at www.arabianhorses.org/USN.
