Elite Arabian and Half-Arabian Athletes Prepare for the 2026 Sport Horse National Championship Show in Wilmington, Ohio

Greenwood, CO, June 30, 2026 - The Arabian Horse Association \(AHA\) is proud to announce the return of the Arabian & Half-Arabian Sport Horse National Championship Show, running September 6–12, 2026, at the World Equestrian Center in Wilmington, Ohio. The only single-breed, stand-alone sport horse national championship in the world, the event brings together the finest Arabian, Half-Arabian, and Anglo-Arabian sport horses from across the continent for a week of world-class competition.

Now in its established tradition as a premier national championship, Sport Horse Nationals continues to grow by bridging the gap between the Arabian breed and mainstream sport horse disciplines. Competitors will vie for coveted national titles in Dressage, Western Dressage, Hunter Hack, Sport Horse In-Hand, Sport Horse Under Saddle, Working Hunter, Show Jumping, and Carriage Driving, all staged at the World Equestrian Center, a facility purpose-built for the demands of elite sport horse competition.

“Sport Horse Nationals represents one of the most exciting expressions of the Arabian horse’s versatility and athleticism today,” said Jim Porcher, Chairman of the Sport Horse Nationals Commission. “This championship continues to attract a growing and incredibly talented community of exhibitors, riders, breeders, and enthusiasts from both within and beyond the Arabian industry. Across all of our national events, we continue to see the Arabian horse thrive in modern equestrian sport while maintaining the strong sense of community that defines our breed.”

The event is expected to welcome approximately 485–500 horses, more than 400 exhibitors, and several thousand spectators across the seven-day run. What sets Sport Horse Nationals apart is not only the caliber of competition but the atmosphere it fosters — a “for exhibitors, by exhibitors” environment where amateurs, youth riders, and top professionals compete side by side. Participants from the broader open hunter/jumper and dressage communities are equally at home here, reflecting the Arabian sport horse’s growing crossover appeal.

Championship presentations throughout the week will recognize top riders and horses across a variety of riding styles and competition levels. Spectators can enjoy a wide range of classes that showcase the skill, training, and partnership between horse and rider in both English and Western disciplines. A significant amount of prize money will be awarded throughout the week, adding to the excitement of each competition and raising the stakes in the arena.

Evening highlights include Dressage Musical Freestyle performances under the lights, offering a beautiful blend of music and movement. Throughout the week, guests are also invited to join in community events like barn gatherings, social parties, and a silent auction, creating opportunities to experience the show beyond the competition arena.

The 2026 show will feature several updates designed to improve the flow of competition and expand opportunities for exhibitors. The week will open with a new half-day Sunday session, helping spread classes more evenly across the schedule. Additional changes will allow more horses and riders to participate in certain classes, and new offerings will bring fresh variety to both English and Western disciplines, including a creative carriage driving class performed to music and the return of a popular timed driving competition. Western Dressage classes have also been further refined to create more focused competition for different horse types.

“The Sport Horse Nationals is a true testament to the versatility and enduring spirit of the Arabian horse. The World Equestrian Center provides an unparalleled stage for these magnificent horses and talented riders to demonstrate top-tier performance in sport horse disciplines. What excites me most is how this event continues to grow while staying true to its roots — it’s a national championship that feels both prestigious and approachable, where exhibitors at all levels can compete and enjoy the experience. I’m especially encouraged by the depth and quality of our yearlings and two-year-olds, which speaks to the direction of our breeders and the strength of the breed moving forward.”

— Jim Porcher, Show Commission Chair

For those traveling to Wilmington, the experience extends well beyond the arena. The World Equestrian Center functions as a self-contained equestrian village, with elite climate-controlled arenas, luxury on-site lodging at the historic Wilbur Estate, a Vendor Village, and an old-fashioned candy store among its amenities. The surrounding region offers its own draws: Cowan Lake State Park provides scenic trails for a midday escape, the National Museum of the U.S. Air Force in nearby Dayton — the world’s largest military aviation museum — makes for an easy day trip, and downtown Wilmington’s boutique shops and the Golden Lamb, Ohio’s oldest continuously operating inn, offer a taste of the area’s rich history.
