

Western Horsemanship

In this class, horse and rider teams work both the rail and a series of tests. These riders individually put their mounts through a variety of maneuvers designed by the judge to test their horsemanship ability. Riders must display correct form and technique in a manner that conveys a pleasurable experience.

